

"SEE THAT CLUB?"

'ROOSEVELT SEES A BIG VICTORY

Political.
(From New York World, Oct. 8, 1908.)

PROTEST TO CROKER AGAINST DELEHANTY.

Leaders Say Man Selected for City Court Judge Is a "Carpenter-Bagger."

GREEN'S CLAIM URGED.

Croker's determination to nominate Francis B. Delahanty, brother-in-law of ex-Senator Murphy, and until recently a resident of Albany, for the City Court bench may cause some trouble at the county convention which Tammany has called.

Croker heard many protests against the collection of Delchasty yesterday. Tammany leaders who had learned about Delchasty's Albany career from The World made a great howl and urged Croker to nominate a Tammany man for the place. Their preference was Assemblyman Joseph L. Green, who is described in the fifth column.

Mr. Green, who introduced the bill creating the position and who secured its passage. It was learned yesterday that Green prevailed on Gov. Roosevelt to sign the bill as a personal favor. Green even secured the pen with which the Governor signed the measure.

He was informed for the nomination by Senator

Maurice Featherston and Lawrence Delmeur-Murphy, who wants the place for his brother-in-law, prevailed on Croker to ignore Green's claims. So, according to the Croker schedule, Delehanthy, who is branded as a "carpet-bagger" by Tammany men, will be nominated to-morrow night unless Croker barks down, as he did in the Tammany men are also wondering over the "turning down" of Assemblyman "Paddy" Roche, of the Fourth District. Roche has been one of the hardbys of Tammany for twenty years. He has served ten terms in the Legis-

Abern, according to the popular story, wanted a man named Burns nominated, and with the help of City Chamberlain Keenan, also a veteran, induced Croker to consent to the change. Noche conducted the Brighton Beach Hotel last

(From New York Herald, Oct. 11, 1900.)

PATTERSON NAMED

FAT PERSON NAMED, GREEN IS SHELVED

Crocker Insisted on Delehanty Getting City Court Judge- ship and Leaders

Are Angry.

P. H. DUGRO RENOMINATED.

Result of Tammany Hall County Convention Means "Old Guard's" Power Is Gone.

CONDEMNS THE ICE TRUST.

For Judges of the Supreme Court

-Edward Patterson and P. Henry Dugro.
For Judge of the City Court-
Francis B. Delehanty.

This ticket was nominated last night by the Tammany County Convention, after one of the bitterest contests Richard Croker ever has been called upon to settle. Each nomination was made unanimously, and on the surface there was no indication of the desperate efforts made by many district leaders to have the slate changed. These efforts did not cease until it was nearly time for the convention to assemble.

The renomination of Judge Dugro was desired by Tammany Hall. Until Mr. Croker gave the word that Judge Patterson should be renominated, none of the braves had regarded him as more than a mere possibility.

They did not consider him to be a Tammany judge, and expected to support Corporation Coun-

There was great disappointment among the rank and file when it was learned that Mr. Whalen had stepped aside in favor of Judge Patterson.

The chief cause of Tammany discontent, however, was Mr. Croker's decision to name Francis H. Dinkelspiel for Judge of the City Court. This

The bill creating another place on the City Court bench had been passed by the Legislature last month and the salary was set at $10,000 a year, and the term is ten years. Assemblyman Joseph I. Green long had been the choice of the district leaders for this position.

The candidacy of Mr. Deichanty was announced at the eleventh hour. It is the understanding of Tammany men that former Senator Edward Murphy, Jr., who is Mr. Deichanty's brother-in-law, demanded the nomination, and that Mr. Croser could not see his way clear to refuse. But every district leader in Tammany favored Mr. Green, and did not cease working for his nomination until late yesterday.

After the nominations had been made and the delegates were filing out of Tammany Hall, one

The reply is worth quoting as showing the temper of the Tammany men. It was that a new order of things has come in Tammany, that the "old guard" no longer is powerful with the Tammany chieftains, and that the men who work neither of whom has given any proof of his capability. The Republican candidate is an able, generally respected lawyer, whose education and record offer a guarantee that he would make an able judge. His Democratic opponent, Francis D. Belshanty, secured the nomination only because he is a relative of former Senator Murphy.

(From Staats-Zeitung, Oct. 15, 1900.)

Originally the nomination was premised by Richard Croker to Member of Assembly Joseph I. Green, through whose exertions the bill creating the new office was passed and became law. Green, who was one of the best representatives Tammany ever had in the Assembly, was so sure of the nomination that he refused a renomination demanded the office for his relative, and succeeded, of course. The Convention naturally annulled Croker's orders without moving an eyelash, although the majority of the delegates felt that they committed a bitter injustice. But not a single one had the courage to oppose the will of the Deas. Under these circumstances it would be no misfortune if Croker, who is becoming where and not engineering, was to be taught a sharp lesson by the defeat of Beichang.